

Our Mission

To prevent child abuse and neglect through education, treatment and advocacy.

Desiree Doherty

Executive Director

Dear Friends,

2011 was a year of great progress and growth for The Parent Child Center of Tulsa. We reached over 27,000 parents and children with at least one of our programs or services.

As part of our ongoing commitment to performance and quality improvement, we regularly evaluate our effectiveness in helping parents and children find hope and learn skills to prevent and end the cycle of child abuse and neglect.

Our partners in evaluation are Dr. Chan Hellman and his team at the OU-Tulsa Center for Applied Research for Nonprofit Organizations. An initial study found that:

- Parent Child Center services mediate the effect of parental distress on the parent/child relationship; and
- PCC Services are a significant predictor of hope for the parents and children we serve.

These findings are important because social and economic distress is a significant risk factor for abuse and neglect, and hope is a prerequisite for any positive behavior change.

What does finding hope mean at PCCT? It is not some warm fuzzy feeling as you might imagine. The research material defines HOPE as having three components: goal, pathway and agency. HOPE means a parent has:

- the goal of something better for their future and for their child;
- the pathway or strategies for reaching that goal; and
- the agency or motivation to keep moving in the direction of their goals even in the face of barriers that arise.

GOAL + PATHWAY + AGENCY = HOPE

It's at the heart of what we do every day.

We are grateful that you continue to help us offer hope to our community's vulnerable children through your strong support for our mission.

Sincerely,

Cary Marshall

Board President

Eight years ago, I became involved with The Parent Child Center through Leadership Tulsa. I have three children that mean everything to me and my wife, Cindy. When I learned that the mission of The Parent Child Center was about helping children and those that care for them, I knew immediately that I wanted to be part of this organization that is shaping the future of children in this community.

I work for Alliance Resource Partners, L.P. and one of the things we talk about all the time is that it is all about "who you are with." It's who you are with in your work environment and it is who you are with in your personal lives as well.

I had no expectation at the beginning that I would be involved with PCCT as long as I have. But when I see the passion that every person at The Parent Child Center has in serving children and those that care for them, it creates a desire in me to "be with" and "stay with" this agency.

The work of The Parent Child Center with parents and children inspires our clients to feel hopeful about their futures, sometimes for the very first time in their lives. Research by the OU-Tulsa Center for Applied Research found:

- After attending the Front Porch Project training provided by PCCT, participants reported taking action on behalf of children that affected a total of 612 people.
- In our home visiting program, Great Beginnings, the majority of the parents improved in being responsive and appropriate in managing their children's behaviors.
- After completing services, parents in the Adult Treatment program scored at significantly reduced risk for child abuse and neglect across all five areas of risk measured.

Offering hope to these children and their families in our community will keep me "with" The Parent Child Center for many years to come. I truly believe the programs offered by this agency are one of the best things we can do for our community because these children are our future.

2011 Guardian Angel Award

The Guardian Angel Award honors individuals whose commitment to The Parent Child Center of Tulsa has made a significant difference in our mission to prevent child abuse and neglect. The Award is presented each year to an individual whose involvement with The Parent Child Center has helped to strengthen families and bring hope and healing to vulnerable children in our community who are at risk for, or victims of, abuse and neglect.

In 2011, for only the third time in the history of this award, The Parent

Child Center honored a couple together. Jim and Kristin Bender have invested substantial time and many talents in the work of The Parent Child Center over the past eight years. Their enthusiasm, generosity and leadership have expanded the reach and impact of our services to more than 27,000 parents and children each year. As a result, these children are safer, more nurtured and have greater opportunity to thrive, learn and grow. Thank you, Jim and Kristin, for your great passion for life and for the compassion you share for children in need.
